REAL ESTATE ENTITLEMENT, USE AND ZONING

The Providence Group can go beyond the typical role of a real estate brokerage firm. Through the experience and expertise of Providence Group Capital, we are able to assist in obtaining all zoning and entitlements for properties at the request of our clients. We will navigate the zoning and entitlement process specific to a property's jurisdiction by attending meetings with city officials, county officials, and neighborhood organizations as well as any public hearings which are necessary to secure the zoning classification essential for the clients' use.

DEVELOPMENT SERVICES

When clients do not have the in-house staffing required to develop real estate, Providence Group Capital is able to provide complete development services, if desired. We will represent clients in connection with the design and construction of individual projects or, on a programmatic basis, for multiple projects. On behalf of our clients, we will advise and negotiate agreements for architectural, engineering, testing and consulting services, as well as any additional agreements required for the construction of improvements for a project. This can include horizontal development, vertical development or a turnkey facility.

We assemble and manage a necessary pool of consultants to create a team which will develop a successful project for our clients. Providence Group Capital will conduct any necessary site planning, building planning and/or feasibility studies that will enable our clients to progress to the Letter of Intent and/or Purchase Agreement phase for a property. Upon securing control of a property for our clients, we will work with the team architects and engineers to formulate plans to permit and develop that property for their use. We supervise the process of obtaining site (civil) permits and building (architectural) permits for the construction of improvements to accommodate our clients' use of the property.
